Problem

FINANCIAL SERVICES

Financial services and insurance companies cannot quantify their cyber risk for the purposes of allocating capital should a major breach occur.

CURRENT METHODS

Current methods available are qualitative and do not satisfy new regulations nor do they provide a company with adequate information for decision making for the best way to deploy resources to minimize the amount of capital required to cover their potential risk exposure.

REINSURERS AND INSURERS

Reinsurers and insurers are struggling with how to quantify cyber risk and therefore price this evolving risk appropriately when selling cyber policies to their customers.

Product

Adaero is the market leading Cyber Risk quantification solution for the financial services and insurance industries which allows businesses to quantify and manage cyber risk and allocate capital in accordance with the Board approved risk appetite.

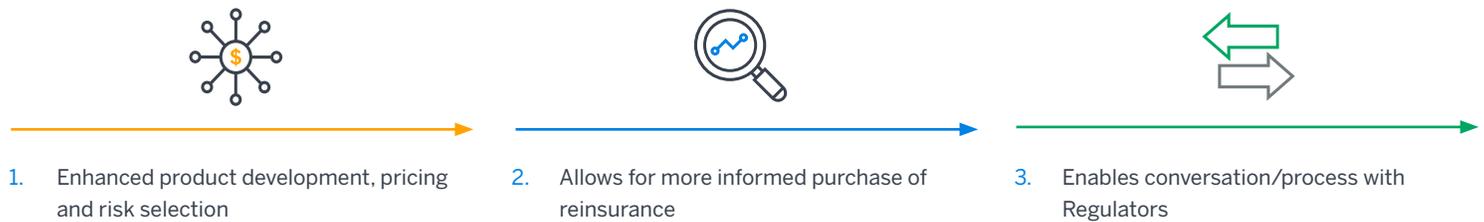

Benefits

The quality of the data ensures reliable output and consistent communication to stakeholders.
